SYNOPSIS AND ACADEMIC COHERENCE OF PROGRAMME:

The first year of study provides a foundation in concepts and theories relating to both Politics and International Relations, linked to more empirical studies of both recent history and contemporary national and global politics. Additionally, there is scope to study options in a variety of other fields, such as languages, psychology, social policy or sociology. The second and final years combine deepening knowledge in the core subjects with the possibility of continuing a particular option stream. Students are also required to undertake a year-long, supervised dissertation in Politics or International Relations in their final year. The optional placement year enables students to work in a relevant area of government or business or an NGO – options likely to lead to even greater employability after graduation. It is also possible to spend this year on study abroad.

EDUCATIONAL AIMS OF THE PROGRAMME:

The Politics and International Relations degree programme is designed to:

- encourage the development of a critical perspective towards problems in politics and international relations;
- develop a systematic understanding of political ideas, institutions and relationships and a critical appreciation of debates relating to key political concepts and processes;
- develop a systematic understanding of international relations and a critical appreciation of debates relating to key concepts and processes, as appropriate to the balance between politics and international relations on the degree programme;
- encourage students to develop their academic potential within a constructive research-led environment;
- allow specialisation in a broad course of study within a flexible educational framework;
- develop academic and transferable skills.

STRUCTURE AND CONTENT OF THE PROGRAMME:

Units are worth 6 credits unless otherwise indicated. Students take four or five units each semester, depending on 6 or 12C units.

There is an optional placement/study abroad year (60 credits) which is spent on an approved work or study abroad placement.

Options available include units in Foreign Languages, Psychology, Social Policy, and Sociology. Some options may take the form of full-year units. Full lists and details of all units are published in the Programme Catalogue which is available at <http://www.bath.ac.uk/catalogues/> and also in the programme description (see the appendix).

All students at the University of Bath are entitled to take extra units to the value of 6 credits in any year, which do not count towards their degree classification.

DETAILS OF WORK PLACEMENTS/WORK BASED LEARNING/PLACEMENT/STUDY ABROAD REQUIREMENTS:

Students who undertake the four-year Politics and International Relations degree programme undertake a placement between their second and final years of academic study at the University. All placement students need to complete their placement satisfactorily, and to submit a final report and poster, as a condition of graduating 'with placement'.

(1) Work placements

Students undertaking a work placement complete at least 30 weeks of work, normally for an approved company or public service organisation. Placements are arranged through the Faculty Placements Office. Recent Politics and International Relations students have undertaken placements with the House of Lords, House of Commons, the Welsh Assembly Government, the European Parliament; regulatory bodies such as Ofgem; government affairs companies such as Interel; businesses including Airbus, Microsoft, Morgan Stanley and PricewaterhouseCoopers; and voluntary sector agencies including Oxfam.

Preparation and support provided to students for work placements:

First year:

- Students given a Placement Handbook and access to placements website, which displays placement information and newsletters
- They attend five placement preparation sessions covering general placement information and advice on CV writing, interview skills, application forms and letters, aptitude tests and assessment days
- They receive individual help throughout the year from a Placements Officer with CVs, application forms and letters, and mock interviews

Second year

- Students attend placement information sessions delivered by a Placement Officer
- Placement vacancies advertised on placement website
- Further individual help given throughout year by a Placement Officer

Third year

- Students on placement are sent a monthly newsletter
- They are assigned a Placement Tutor who provides support and visits them if they are in the UK or in Brussels

Fourth year

- They design a poster about their placement experience which they present at a meeting for first-year and second-year students and staff
- Placement Tutors hold individual post-placement meetings with students to evaluate placement experience and discuss dissertation and future career plans.

Progress and achievement of students on workplacements is monitored by the visit, two reports that are submitted by their managers or supervisors and submission of the poster.

(2) Study year abroad

Students who can offer a foreign language at the appropriate level may participate in the Department's exchanges with leading institutions in France, Germany, Italy and Spain (under the Erasmus programme) and in Chile, Mexico and Russia. Selection will be made on academic merit, except that for foreign-language exchanges, priority will be given to students on languages programmes. Placements are arranged through the Department's Year Abroad Officer for the country concerned. The Department hopes to provide English-language exchange opportunities in the coming years.

Students undertaking a study year abroad complete at least 30 weeks on an approved programme of study at a partner institution.

Preparation and support provided to students for study abroad comprises briefings in the second year, support from their personal tutor and the Year Abroad Officer for the country concerned during the third year, and individual and group de-briefings upon return. There are also designated contacts for visiting students in each host institution. Students will agree a programme of study with the relevant Year Abroad Officer.

Progress and achievement of students on study abroad is monitored by submission of reports and transcripts of marks awarded by the host institution.

DETAILS OF SUPPORT AVAILABLE TO STUDENTS:

University of Bath students attending programmes of study at the Claverton Campus are usually encouraged to stay in University halls of residence during their first year and will be supported in their transition into University life and study by Resident Tutors. These are postgraduate students or staff who live in the halls of residence and are responsible for the general welfare, health and safety and discipline of student residents.

Undergraduate students will be allocated a Personal Tutor who is responsible for monitoring and supporting the academic progress and general welfare of their students.

Staff in these roles will be able to respond to many of the questions and concerns raised by their students. However, there is also a range of specialist student support services that will offer both information and advice to support these staff working with their students, as well as take referrals to work more directly with the students. Students can also self-refer to these services.

These services can provide information, advice and support in relation to accommodation, emotional difficulties, assessment of needs and provision of support relating to disability, student funding, general welfare, academic problems, student discipline and complaints, careers, international students, spiritual matters, part time work, security and personal safety. The Students' Union can also provide advocacy for students. More information about these services can be accessed via: <http://www.bath.ac.uk/students/support/>.

There are also Medical and Dental Centres, and a Chaplaincy on campus that are very experienced in meeting the needs of a student population, as well as a University nursery and vacation play scheme to provide childcare for older children during the school holidays.

The Department offers an induction week at the start of the first year, complementing a more general induction programme offered by the University. During this week students are issued with the Programme Handbook which gives further advice and full details of their programme of study. They are introduced to their first-year subjects and teachers and given advice on studying and skills development. All teaching staff are available to see students in regular office hours or by appointment; students are always encouraged to seek advice from teachers. The Department prides itself on its commitment to its undergraduates and aims to create a friendly and welcoming atmosphere.

There are good Arts facilities and exceptional Sports facilities on campus.

ADMISSIONS CRITERIA:

Three good passes at A2, or a similar standard in the Scottish Highers, European or International Baccalaureates, or equivalent qualifications from other countries. A good pass at GCSE in English Language is required; international students may be asked to provide evidence that they meet the University's minimum standard of proficiency in English. Applicants with Access or BTEC qualifications, as well as combinations of A levels with GNVQ and successor qualifications, will also be considered. Mature applicants without formal qualifications will be considered on an individual basis but may in some cases be requested to complete an Access course or a Foundation Year. Credit can be given for up to one year of study on a similar programme at another university at the discretion of the Faculty Board of Studies. Details of current offers, in terms of grades or points required, can be found in the prospectus or at <http://www.bath.ac.uk/study/ug/prospectus/subject/politics-international-relations>: they are likely to range from AAA to A*AA at A2 or 38-40 points in the International Baccalaureate.

ASSESSMENT AND PROGRESSION REGULATIONS:

This programme is fully compliant with the University's New Framework for Assessment: Assessment Regulations (NFAAR). The NFAAR describes the rules for progression from one stage of the programme to the next (including supplementary assessment, and the extent of failure that can be condoned) as well as for the award of degrees. Students taking the programme will be assessed according to these rules; further information about the NFAAR is available at <http://www.bath.ac.uk/registry/nfa/index.htm>.

Below is a description of how the programme is structured in terms of the NFAAR. Information about Designated Essential Units (DEUs) and Designated Alternative Programmes (DAPs), and the definitions for parts and stages of programmes, are also available in the NFAAR (see Appendix 2: Definitions).

Year 1 (Stage 1) constitutes Part One of the programme.

In the three-year programme, Year 2 (Stage 2) constitutes Part Two.

In the four-year programme Year 2 (Stage 2) and Year 3 (Stage 3) if taken constitute Part Two. The placement in Year 3 is standard (ie not assessed). If a study placement is chosen it does not replace a normal period of study at Bath.

Year 4 constitutes Part Three of the programme.

Year 1 and the Placement Year, if taken, do not contribute towards final degree marks. Year 2 contributes 32% and Year 4 68%.

QUALITY AND STANDARDS

Indicators of Quality and Standards

(For more general information on each part of the framework, click on the link)

To assure continuing excellence in its quality and standards, the University of Bath has a quality management framework including:

1. A Quality Assurance Code of Practice and associated regulations and policies
2. A learning, teaching and quality committee structure which monitors quality and standards and instigates action for enhancement. For further information:
 - Governance
 - Review and Monitoring

3. Staff development arrangements that assist staff in enhancing their own performance as educators, as researchers or as professional support services staff.

Students are involved in many of these processes. The emphasis here is upon the informed student voice - engaging with students as academic citizens to ensure they have opportunities to take an active part in shaping their own learning.

A more detailed overview of the University's Quality Management Framework is set out in a summary document.

The University's management of its academic standards and quality is monitored and reviewed by the Higher Education Funding Council for England (HEFCE) under the Revised Operating Model for Quality Assessment (ROMQA). The last Institutional Review conducted by the QAA in 2013 confirmed that the University met its expectations for the management of standards, the quality of learning opportunities, and the enhancement of learning opportunities. The University was commended on its provision of information.

Professional placements for a year or a semester are particularly supported at Bath by specialised staff and these arrangements are demonstrably effective for improving degree grade and employability within six months of graduation.

The Department of Politics, Languages and International Studies has a long record of high quality teaching and research. It is regularly ranked in the top 10 providers in the UK in university league tables. Levels of overall student satisfaction recorded in the National Student Survey are invariably high and have reached 100% in several subjects in recent years. It has an active research environment and has consistently been rated highly in the official Research Assessment Exercises.
